The statement of comprehensive income in IFRS terminology, also called income statement or income statement (abbreviated CR1), is a financial statement summarizing all the expenses and income of a company or other organization having a commercial activity, for a given period, called the financial year.

This screen presents the income statement, for all or part of the financial year.

Using the screen

Access: Accounting → Accounting documents → Income statement

The Generate button triggers the calculation of the income statement for the specified date range. You can use the Filter area to specify the account (e.g. 411), accounts (e.g. 61*), or account range (e.g. 61-62) that interests you. You can also filter the export for a specified Journal.

The accounts presented are those of product class and load class. The difference between the balances of these accounts constitutes the result of the financial year (or period).

Use the context menu of the table to access the accounting document generation options.

The results can be presented in any currency other than the accounting currency, via a right click on the Currency field.
